Administration

The members of the administrative body have been very close to the school and its work. The deep interest of the advisory board is shown in presence and praise of school activities and their approval of a reasonable financial budget. The township attorney is very generous with his knowledge of law. The trustee is an inspiration in his general planning and words and smiles of encouragement and approval. The county superintendent, who so wisely plans the general policies of the school, keeps us up to date on latest educational programs. Our principal administers the different departments of the school by administering the policies and plans of the superintendent and trustee.

Departments

The nucleus of tomorrow's citizenship is today's learning. Let us look into the various departments of learning and see our students hard at work.

Many of these departments are nominal and students may choose those subjects which they like or those which will help the most in later life. At the beginning of the sophomore year each student is launched on a choice of business education, college preparatory, or vocational curriculum. After a student's decision on a curriculum he is guided to take certain subjects of most benefit in his particular field.

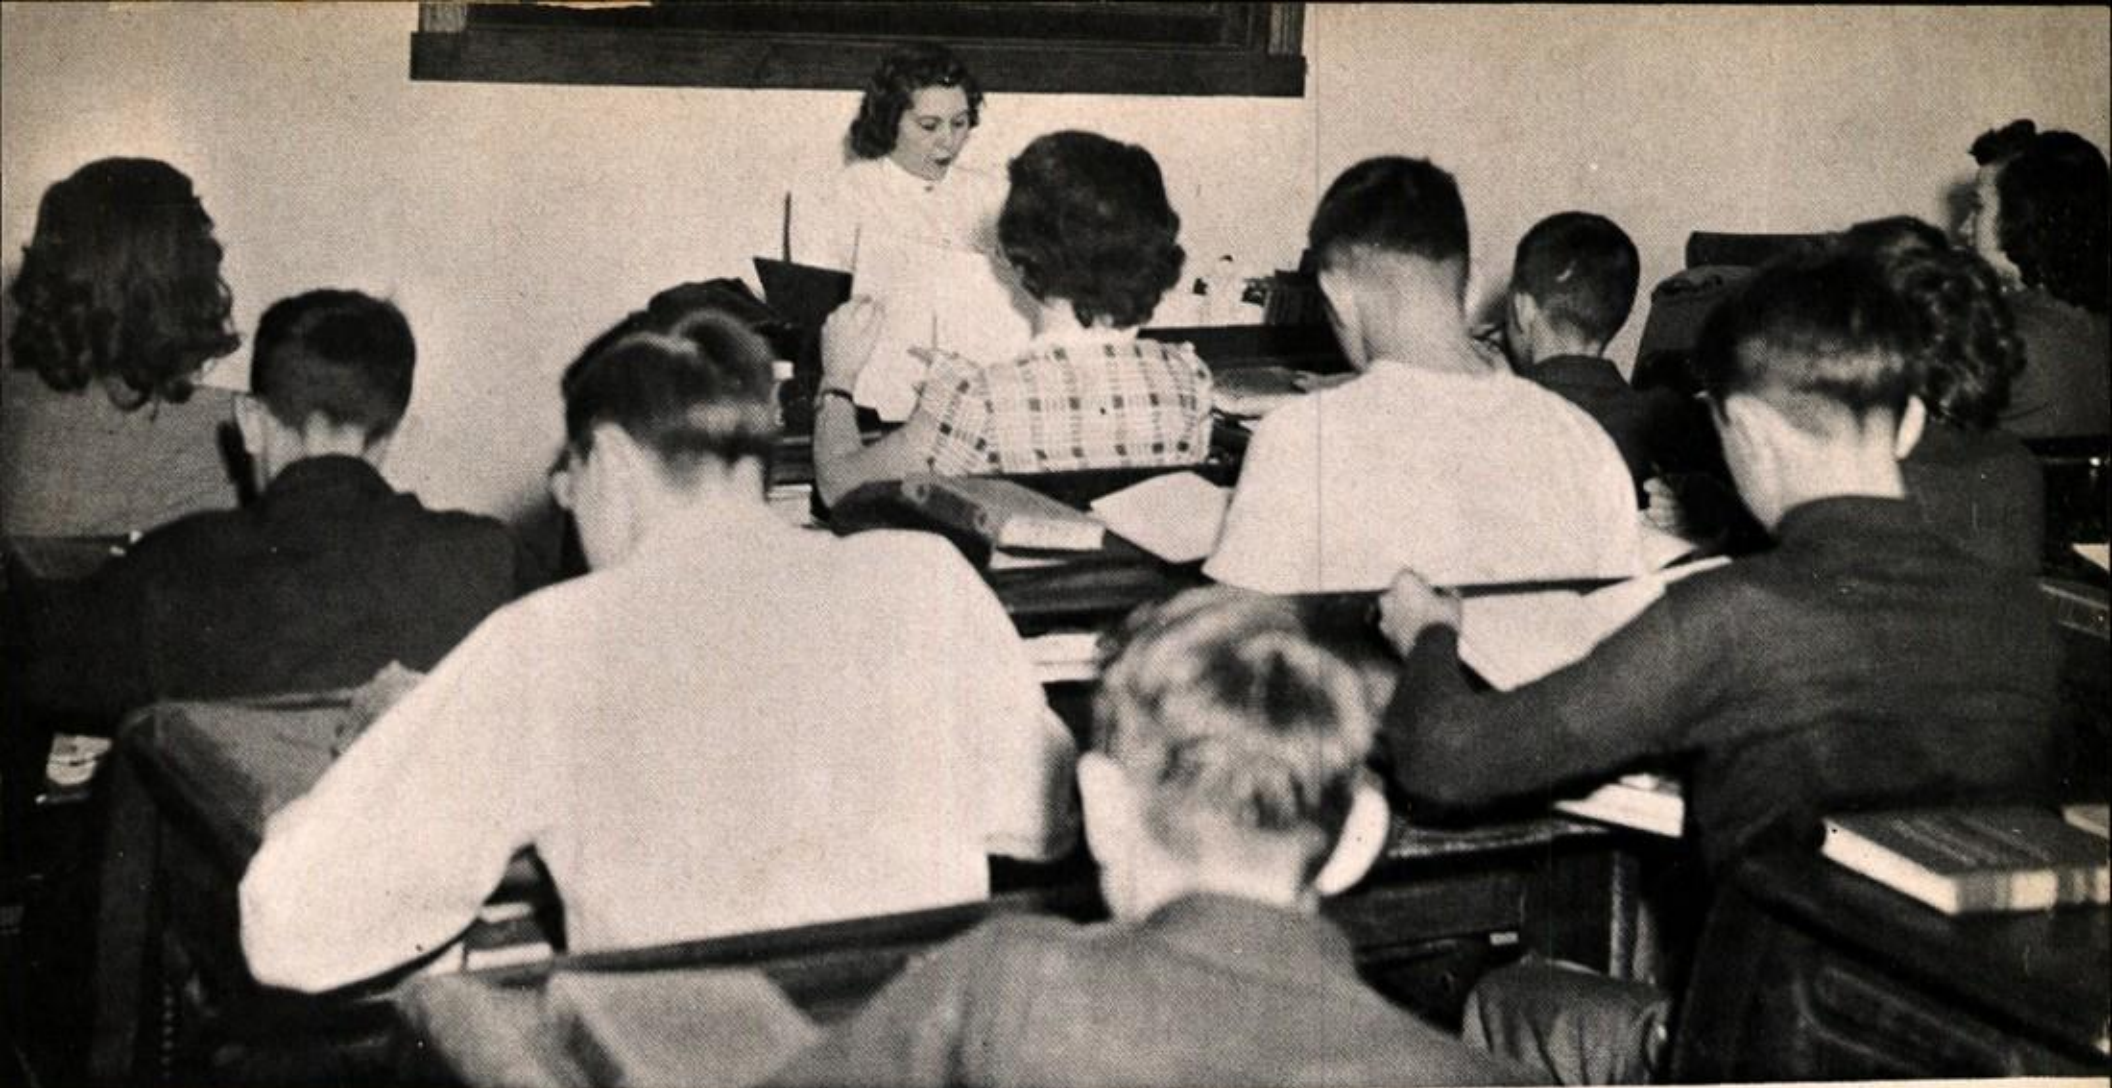

Some of the department shots are informal, because more can be accomplished in some types of work through an informal atmosphere. These include the journalism, commercial, home economics, shop, music, and physical education departments. Other departments such as social studies, mathematics, Latin, and English must function with more dignity. All in all the students of Yorktown High School, with pleasure as well as work, accomplish a great deal.

LATIN

A knowledge of Latin aids us in our study of English and other languages. Not only are we benefited in the understanding of our own language, but Latin also is of great value in the study of many professional fields such as medicine and teaching.

The Latin classes, with Mrs. Kimmel as teacher, have been outstanding in the past several years in contest participation. Each year the district contest has been won by one of Mrs. Kimmel's students, with Yorktown at one time placing second in the state.

ENGLISH

No student leaves school without lingering awhile in one of the divisions of Yorktown High School's English department. Here are taught the fundamentals of our language and the appreciation of good literature under the guidance of Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Heeter, and Mr. Pursley. Two elective subjects of our English department are journalism and public speaking. The value of public speaking is in teaching our students how to speak our language clearly, pleasantly, and effectively. The journalism class writes our school paper and exchanges newspapers with high schools all over the United States. These and city dailies are read with an eye toward comparison, evaluation, and content.

SOCIAL STUDIES

In these classes boys and girls develop a feeling of civic responsibility as they strive to become good citizens of America. Through panel and group discussions history of the past and present is blended to attain the utmost understanding of our times. Included in the department are American history, ancient history and civics. Mrs. Kimmel and Mrs. Dunn are the social studies teachers.

SCIENCE

In this department scientific courses are planned as instructional studies of many phases of science in its application to the life of each pupil regardless of his ultimate life's work. At the same time these courses present the fundamental theories and concepts which are so necessary for those who elect a career based on science. Chemistry, physics, biology and general science are offered. Mrs. Henkle and Mr. Babcock are the teachers of these subjects.

MATHEMATICS

Yorktown High School has an outstanding mathematics department in that the classes are exceptionally large for our enrollment. There are four full years of high school mathematics offered including elementary algebra, elementary geometry, advanced algebra, trigonometry, solid geometry, general mathematics and junior high school arithmetic. The mathematics teachers are Mrs. Henkle, Mr. Babcock, and Mr. Stephenson.

TYPING

The fundamentals of typewriting, units pertaining to personal and office typing problems, a speed and accuracy testing cycle, and stenographic designs constructed on the typewriter were completed by the beginning typing classes during the year. Advanced typists progressed through units of problems which included office forms, duplicate copies, stencils, master copies, legal documents and civil service forms. This class prepares the masters and stencils and does the duplicating for the office and the teachers on the direct-process ditto, gelatin ditto and the mimeograph along with miscellaneous record keeping and various tasks related to the commercial department.

Mrs. Eastman teaches advanced typing, office machines, and shorthand.

COMMERCIAL

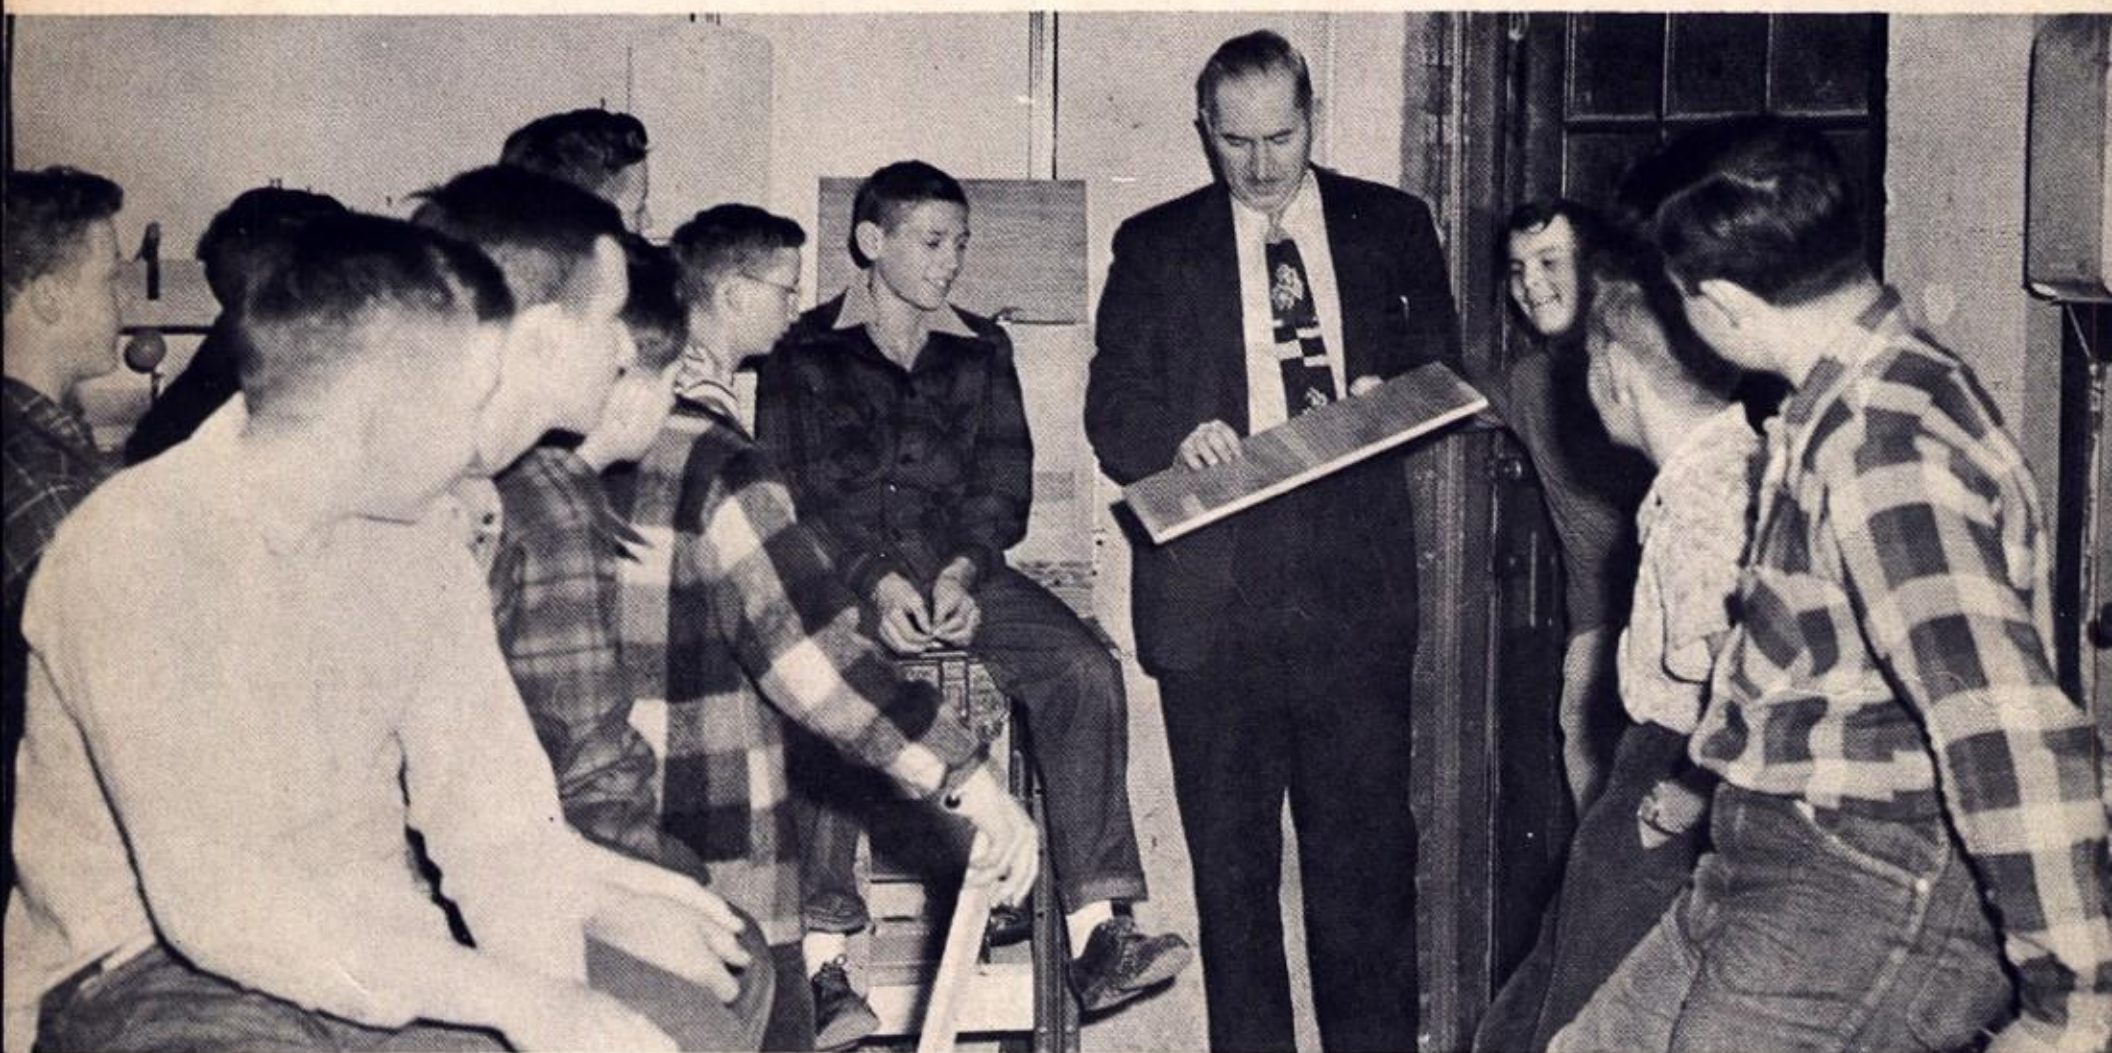

Bookkeeping, general business, and business law prepare students to use business methods and service intelligently. The study of business law is presented through the inductive case-method approach, following the principles of law necessary to the solution of problems. General business bridges the gap between school and life's work. The value of bookkeeping is realized in the attainment of a vocation as well as in effective home or private use.

Mr. Small teaches beginning typing, junior business practice, bookkeeping, and business law classes.

HOME ECONOMICS

Future homemakers receive practical training under the guidance of Mrs. Brown. Cooking, sewing, home care of the sick, grooming, and food preservation as well as nutrition and healthful living are learned in this department. Young girls gain experience in many projects which are planned parallel to actual home situations. 4-H and FHA (Future Homemakers of America) function under this department.

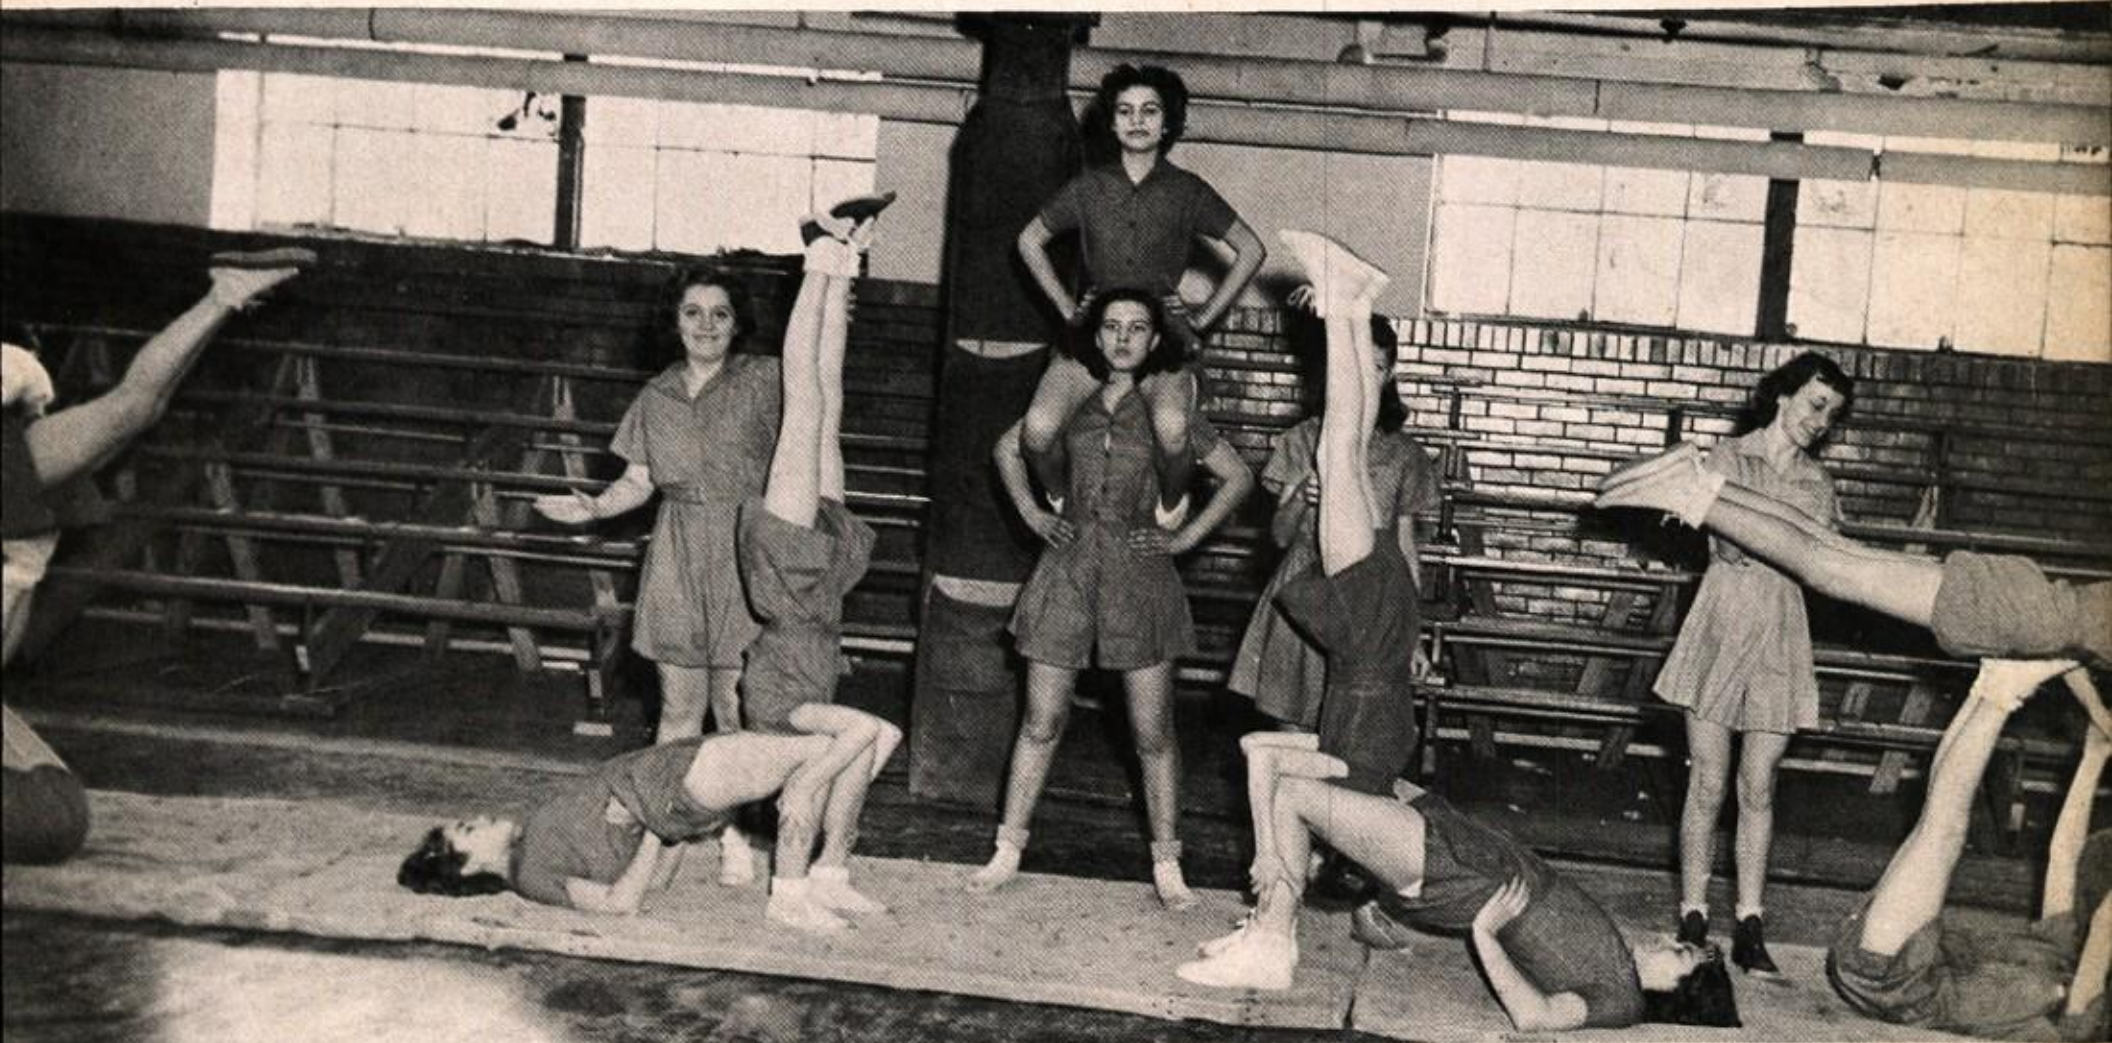

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Drafting and woodworking are offered to train young men as craftsmen. These, some day, may be the noted mastercraftsmen who will know the true value of working with their hands. Here under the guidance of Mr. Stephenson are learned proper use of tools and an appreciation of personal accomplishment in the art of construction.

HEALTH

First aid, the study of the care and function of the parts of the body, and healthful living are covered in our health classes. Knowledge of these things will develop a stronger nation. A course in drivers' training is also offered which educates youth in proper and safe operation of motor vehicles. Actual experience in operating an automobile is given as excellent training for safer drivers. Mr. May, our coach, is the teacher of these subjects.

GIRLS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The girls' physical education department, under the supervision of Mrs. Eastman, has squad leader organization. Each squad leader acts as captain of her team, aids in checking the roll, helps put equipment in its proper place and assists in keeping the locker room in order. The girls have completed units in German baseball, volley-ring tennis, volley ball, basketball, tumbling, minor sports, softball, folk dancing, and recreational games. It is the objective of the course to offer some activity during the year in which every girl will develop acceptable skill and receive enjoyment.

Squad leaders for the present year have been: Mary Jo Wagner, Mary Ellen Warfel, Dorothy Everett, Nancy Antrim, Joyce Lusk, Jane Phillips, Eleanor Crawley, and Beverly Ruddick.

MUSIC

Yorktown High School is proud of its outstanding band. Directed by Mr. Wooley, it has been built up during the past two years to an excellent representation of the talent of our school. The band, in all its glory, lends color and inspiration to our teams and to our student body. This group is especially noted for its marching routines, unusual in the fact that they are original, having been worked out by the students themselves. With the aid of the newly organized Band Booster Club it was possible to purchase new uniforms of green and white. Reading from left to right, the members of the band are:

SENIORS

As graduation draws near the Seniors pause to recall their four years of high school.

Guided by Mrs. Genevieve Summers and Mrs. Mayro Porter, we entered high school in 1944 as freshmen. Class officers were Phil Fraizer, president; Dick Antrim, vice-president; and Shirley Caroline, secretary.

As sophomores we ordered our class rings. Our officers for the year were Harry Stephenson, president; Wayne Lennington, vice-president; Harold Collins, secretary; and Eddie Dragoo, treasurer. During the year two class parties were held under the direction of our sponsors, Mrs. Willimiene Hofherr and Mrs. Van Skyock.

Our junior year was highlighted by our play, "Faith, Hope, and Flarity", presented March 19. The class had charge of selling the concessions at all school activities. We played host to the seniors at Indianapolis where everyone enjoyed the Shrine Circus. The class sponsors were Mrs. Mary Etta Sutton and Mrs. Hofherr, and the class was led by the officers, Don Morgan, president; Harry Stephenson, vice-president; Nancy Williams, secretary; and Harold Collins, treasurer.

Seniors at last!! Thirty-five of us will march to the platform in our grey caps and gowns, to receive our diplomas that we have worked for these past twelve years. This year our class presented the play "Superstitious Sadie". We also planned the Homecoming

Day, the activities of which included initiation of the Freshmen and a dance in the evening. Along with many other activities as seniors the year proved to be quite a success.

School is over for this class of '49 with a success that could not have been accomplished without the guidance of our faculty and parents, and as we go out into the world, we shall always remember the good times we had at good old Y. H. S.

We wish to extend our gratitude and thanks to our sponsors, Mrs. Betty Jones and Mr. Callaway, for working with us and being sympathetic advisors in our final year.

The senior group is pictured in one of more serious moods at a class meeting with Mrs. Jones and Mr. Callaway. Here decisions are made on many different activities and problems. Don Morgan, president, is presiding.

As from our dear school we depart;

PROPHECY

While buying tickets to the concert at the field house to hear Betty Kiser play her golden piano, Lucy and Phyllis pondered over the activities of their former classmates . . . Presently they were joined by Nancy Williams, now the dean of a very fashionable boys' school in Daleville . . . Down the list of chums they went and this is what they found: Lois Wallace, a graduate of a journalism school, is now the editor of the Chicago Tribune . . . Wilberta McKinley Davis is football coach at Ball State. Her husband, Pete, is assistant drivers' training teacher at Y. H. S. . . . Flora Newman couldn't come tonight. She is still on duty as Muncie's first police-woman . . . Wayne Lennington is awaiting news of his election as justice of peace of Oakville . . . Phil Fraizer has reached his highest ambition to be president of the senior class of Ball State Teachers College . . . Joyce Johnson is a noted beautician and Jerry Johnson is a well-known tonsorial artist . . . Perry Hensley's swine farms are prospering so nicely that he has employed a private vet, Harry Stephenson . . . Don Morgan has achieved the presidency again; this time he is the head of the Indian Mortician's Association . . . Antrim and Smith are co-owners of a printing shop and the last we heard, they were making money . . . Miles Coleman is the big egg in Shakespeare's new production, Omlet . . . Cheri Myers is an air-hostess for T. W. A. . . . Patty Estep and Patti Phillips are Powers models and have appeared on the cover of Parent's Magazine. . . . Joanne Broadwater's new book, A Shrub Grows in Yorktown, is rated as the current book of the month . . . A talented dress designer, Donna Swanger works with Irene in Hollywood . . . Evelyn Watkins and Verna Warfel are interior decorators of good standing. They will help in the remodeling of the White House . . . Naomi Hodson and Jim Skinner are famous radio-television comedians . . . Eddie Dragoo is the new master of ceremonies for "How Well Can You Spell, Huuuh?" . . . Beulah Stewart is head dietitian at the Yorktown Memorial Hospital . . . Robert McKinley is janitor at Y. H. S. . . . Betty Yingling and Bonnie Williams own what was formerly Byerly's Drug Store and Tom Collins is the chief soda jerk . . . Raiford Terry's church is a little Chapel built by Nell Reed and her husband after they inherited an enormous fortune . . . Lucille Green has been employed a number of years as a dishwasher and general housekeeper . . . Phyllis Mann? Well, she is Muncie's first woman bootblack, and she seems to be doing quite well . . . Mrs. Jones, their poor sponsor, is a little old lady who just sits on her porch and rocks. She'll never quite be the same since April, 1949 . . . Mr. Callaway says he makes more money cleaning streets.

JUNIORS

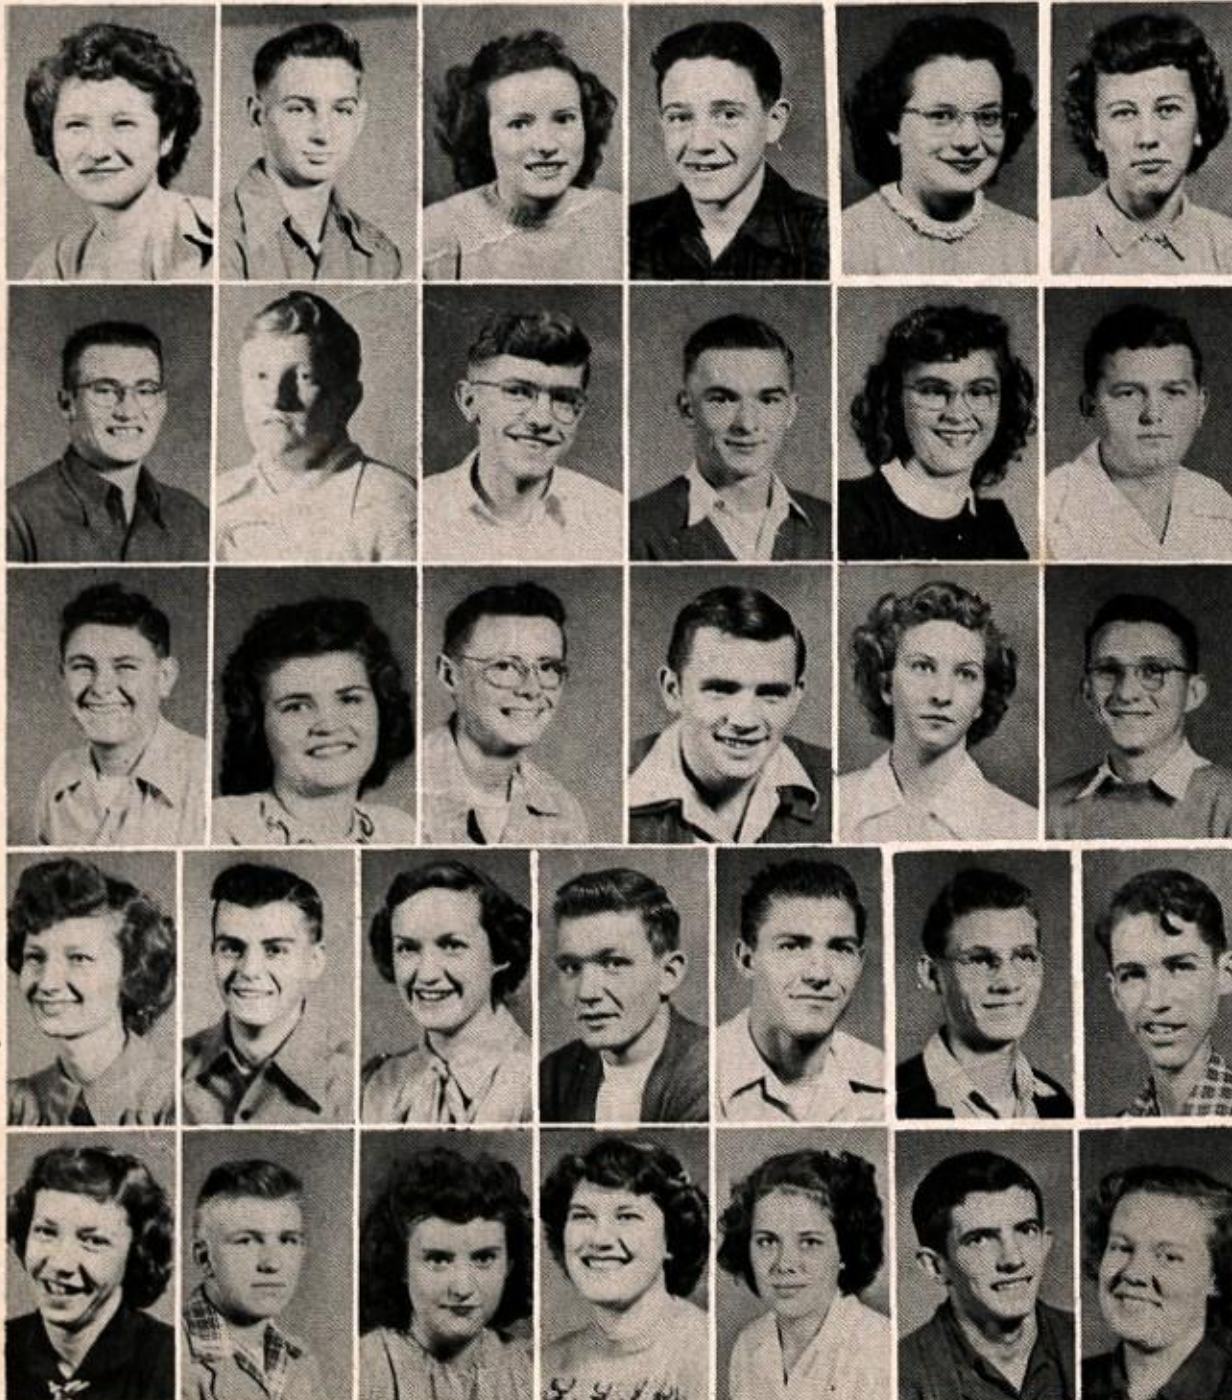

To the juniors who will occupy our place next year we sincerely wish the best of luck.

In anticipation of its junior-senior financial obligations the class began projects such as selling concessions at the baseball and basketball games, chili suppers, and bake sales. During the earlier part of the year the juniors happily received their class rings.

A play, entitled "Fresh as a Daisy", was presented by the juniors March 11, which brought much laughter and enjoyment to all the audience. Activities of a more recreational nature included two class parties and the sponsorship of dances after the basketball games.

Sponsors of the junior class are Mrs. Heeter and Mr. Pursley.

NINTH GRADE

With the long awaited day here at last the freshmen started the long grind through high school. Perhaps they weren't so happy about it when they were initiated at the homecoming program by the seniors, but the freshmen took their punishment like ladies and gentlemen. The seniors were somewhat cautious in their punishment for the "greenies", keeping in mind that the freshman class was the largest class in the high school with about twice the senior enrollment.

One of the activities of the year was a hayride which took them to Jackie Miller's home for a weiner roast.

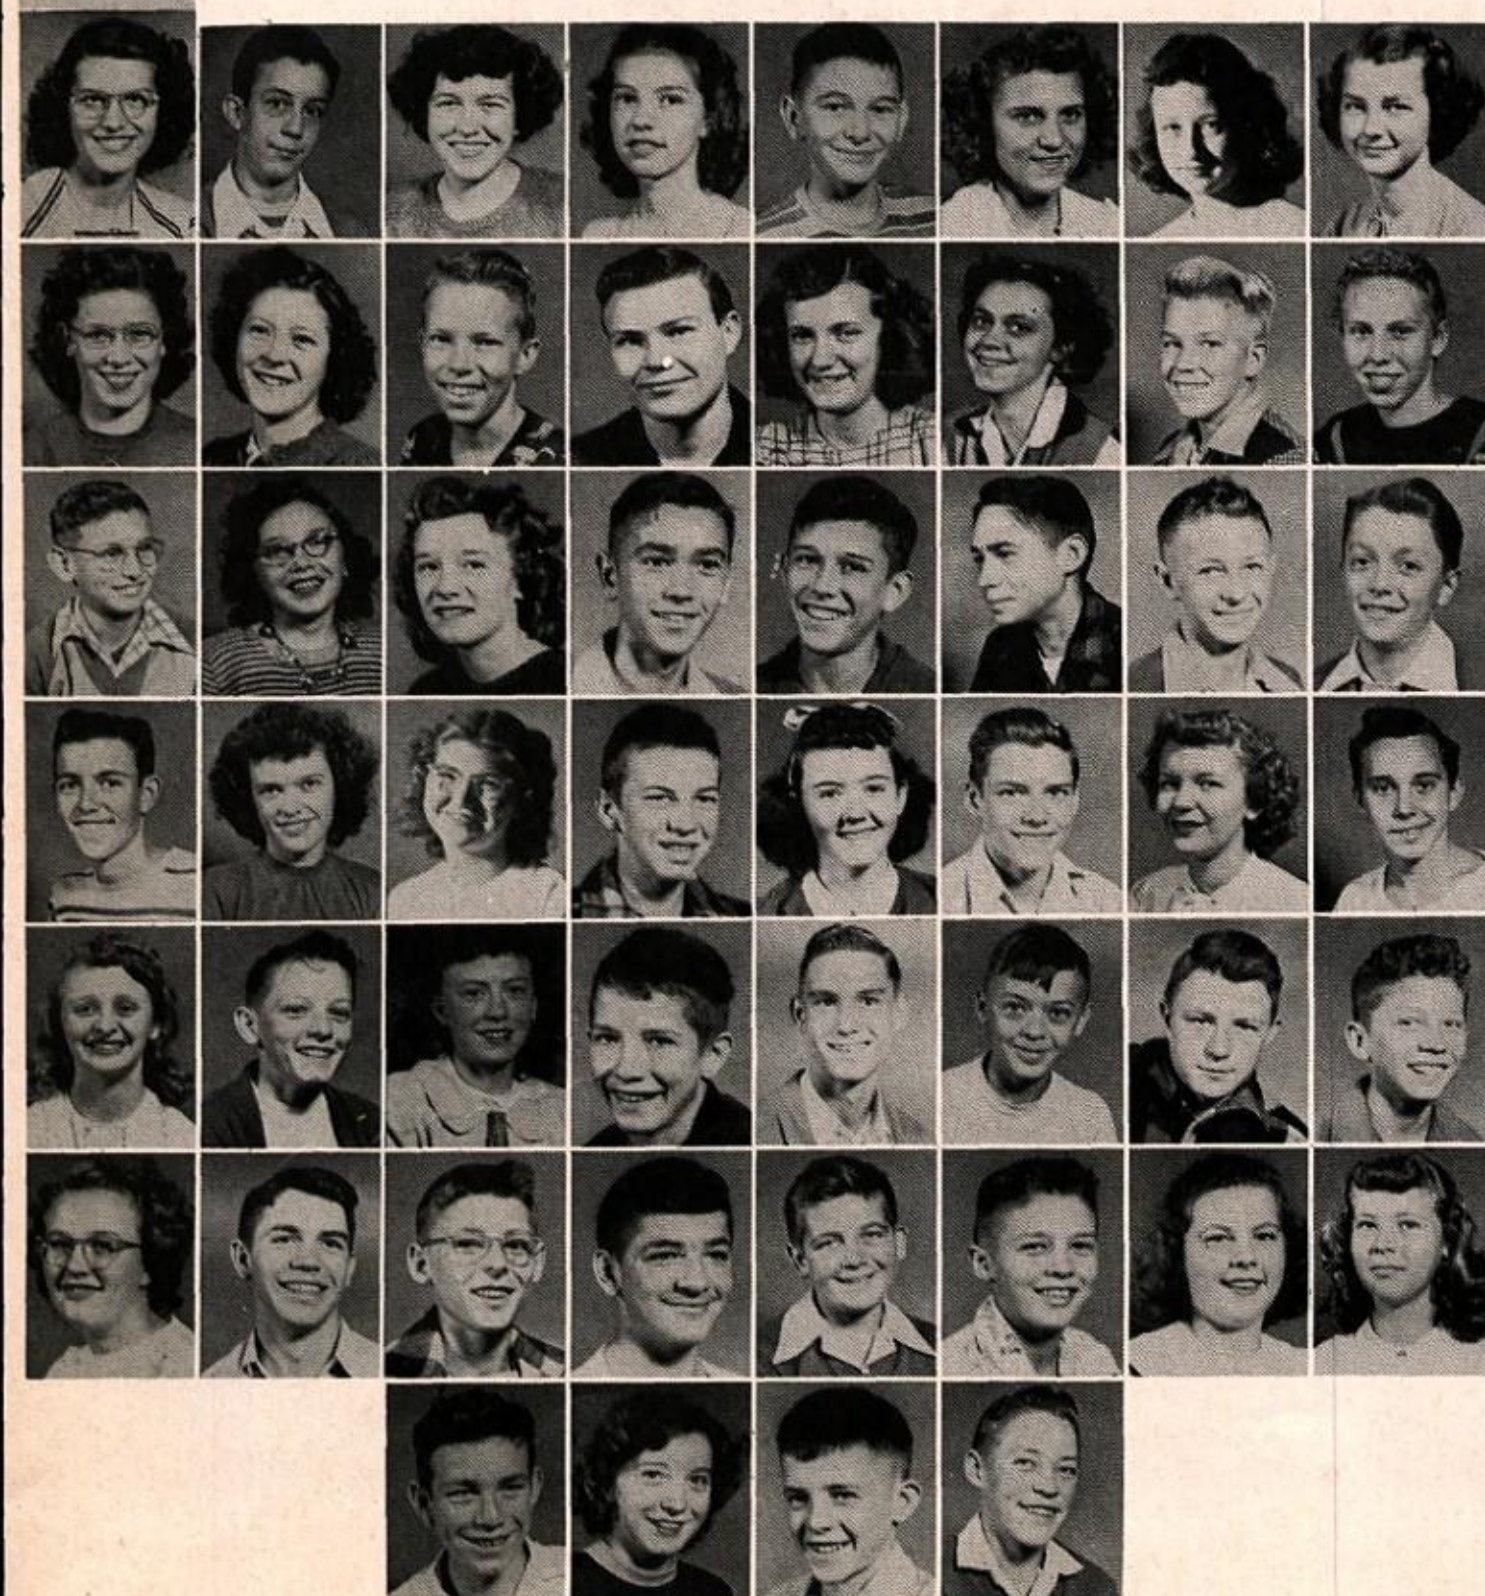

With their hard beginning behind them and a bright future ahead, the freshmen look forward to the remainder of their high school days.

The class sponsors are Mrs. Brown and Mr. Stephenson.

EIGHTH GRADE

Now we have the eighth grade, a very successful group, who last year was the baby of the assembly and who next year will be entering high school. This fine class has made much progress and development. One of the parties which the eighth grade enjoyed was held at Eugene Hall's. We wish them our hearty congratulations and the best of luck throughout the coming year. Together with the seventh grade, they presented the operetta, "Tom Sawyer" February 1.

Sponsors of the eighth grade are Mrs. Henkle and Mr. Babcock.

SEVENTH GRADE

On the morning of August 27, 1948, a group of forty-six boys and girls found their way to room 8 to enroll as members of the seventh grade and to launch their careers as part of the "upper six." After their orientation and getting-acquainted period, they settled down to becoming a very real part of our school.

Late in September the group held a weiner and marshmallow roast at the ball park and then returned to the school cafeteria for games.

In collaboration with the eighth grade, "Tom Sawyer" an operetta was presented by the students on February 1.

As the year draws to a close, another group of seventh graders have aspirations of becoming the eighth graders of '50.

The class sponsors are Mrs. Kimmel and Mrs. Eastman.

ACTIVITIES

Yorktown High

BROADCASTER

On every fourth Friday of the school year our school newspaper, the Broadcaster, is distributed during the sixth period. Students and faculty alike have learned to anticipate this particular "sixth period" with a great deal of pleasure.

Under the direction of the editor the staff members cover their beats for their respective assignments. Then the copy is typed, heads are written, and the material is placed on dummy sheets in order to determine proper page arrangement.

These sheets of "dummy" are then taken to the advanced typing classes where the sheets are proof-read, lines and spaces are counted, and the stencils cut. The stencils are then placed on the speed-o-scope and heads and pictures are put in place. After a complete rereading, the page number is typed in place. This signifies that the stencil is ready to run on the mimeograph. The copies are run, counted, checked, and stapled.

Thus the staff has co-operated, each member has assumed his responsibility, the Broadcaster hits the classes on the deadline—another issue is out on time.

Three faculty members supervise the various steps for the Broadcaster production. The journalism class which provides the nucleus of the staff is taught by Mr. Pursley. The stencil arrangement and cutting, proof-reading, and stapling are the problems of the senior typing classes under the direction of Mrs. Eastman. The actual mimeographing of the numerous copies is done by Mr. Small. Six hundred copies are made of each issue.

Without the untiring assistance, friendly co-operation, and contagious enthusiasm of the staff and faculty advisors, the group would be unable to accomplish its objective—that of publishing the school paper.

FRANKLIN PRESS CONFERENCE

On October 22-23, Donna Swanger, Patti Phillips, and Joanne Broadwater were sent to the Franklin Press Convention in Franklin, Indiana, to represent the Broadcaster staff. They attended various meetings to learn ways of improving the school paper. They also attended classes and exchanged ideas with pupils from high schools all over Indiana on ways to promote and finance a yearbook. Mr. Pursley was the sponsor.

EPISODE

Every yearbook staff goes to work with a commendable and fervid ambition to produce an outstanding edition of school memories for that year. Such can be said about the class of '49.

Time, thought, and effort were well spent by the class, and the Episode, which is entirely written and financed by the seniors, is the fruit of such work. The staff functioned under six committees: advertising, layout, write up, pictures, sports, and circulation. Over all these committees were Donna Swanger, Editor-in-chief, and Don Morgan, Assistant Editor.

Immense credit goes to Mrs. Jones and Mr. Callaway who advised and assisted with the entire project. All final copy was typed under the supervision of Mrs. Eastman. The class would also like to thank Mr. Small for his help in taking some of the informal shots.

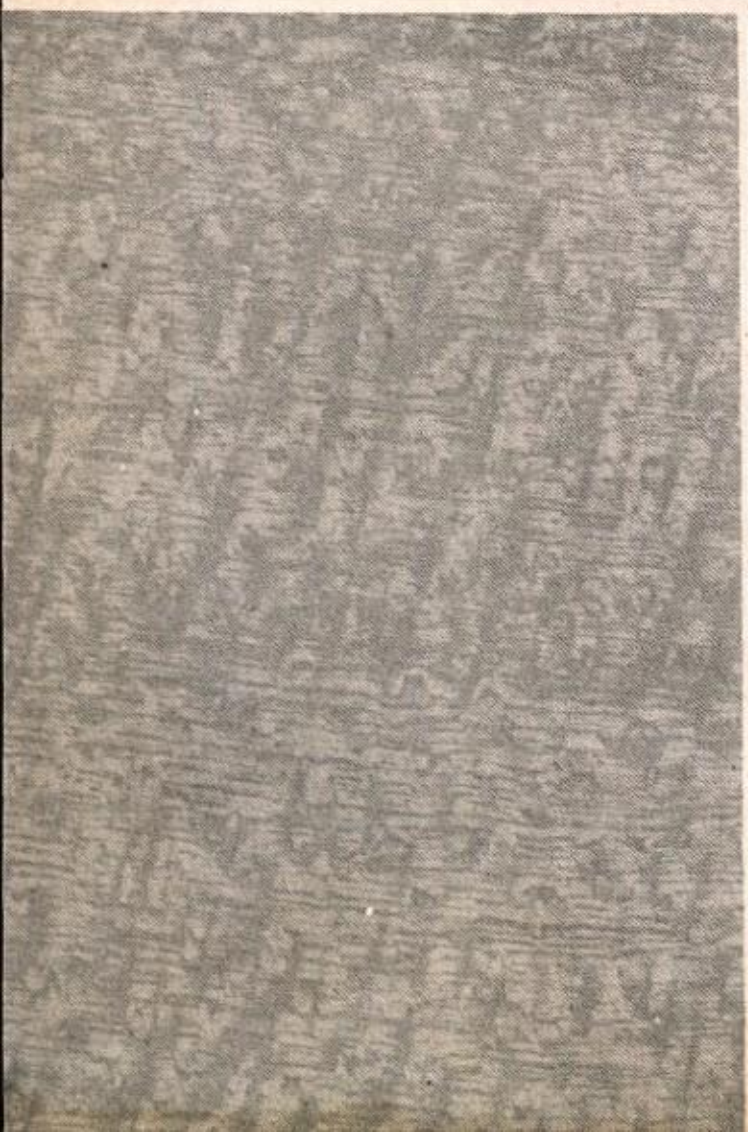

The staff and sponsors are proud of the result of the confusion and hard work—the 1949 Episode. They hereby challenge the future seniors to do as well or better.

Thanks to Pete, Raiford, Phil, and Wayne, the world's best solicitors of advertising.

Here we are at work.

LIBRARY

Within the hallowed chambers of the library assemble many studious people. In this sanctuary they do reference work for classes, select books for book reports, read magazines and newspapers for current events, and do light reading for pleasure. Found here are excellent sources of valuable information. Some of these are the pamphlet file, encyclopedias, biographic section, dictionaries, magazines, and readers' guides.

Any library must have a well trained staff. Under the direction of Mrs. Jones, librarian, are Joy Wallace, Joyce Mann, Barbara Reed, Lenora Jones, Betty Erdle, John Morris, Phil Brown, Jerry Jackson, and John Whealy.

F. H. A.

The F. H. A., Future Homemakers of America, a state and nationwide organization, was extended to Y. H. S. this year. This club is for high school girls who have been or are enrolled in home economics. This organization is intended to develop social qualities and to promote and develop better home life for its members and their families. Mrs. Brown directs both the F. H. A. and 4-H.

4-H

Enrichment and development of youth are the principles of the 4-H club, members of which are both boys and girls. Last year Yorktown's club had one of the highest ratings in baking, food preparation, food preservation, and room improvement. Ninety-seven out of a hundred completed their projects and from this number forty-three received blue ribbons. Yorktown sent three entries to the State Fair and each attained the honor of being awarded blue ribbons.

The band plays "Onward Tigers" as the grand march begins.

HOMECOMING

The 1948 Homecoming day, November 24, began with the school holding open house. A surprise program, which turned out to be the initiation of the freshmen and new teachers, was held from 2:00 to 3:00. At 7:00 Yorktown played Royerton a basketball game. After the ball game the seniors gave an open dance which the alumni and others attended and enjoyed. The decorations carried out the theme of "Covered Wagon Daze." By popular vote of the student body the Royal Court was chosen among other various activities of the Homecoming. Phyllis Mann was chosen Queen, Tom Collins, King; the attendants were Carolyn McKinley, sophomore, and Jack Keed, junior.

—I now crown you King—

"You bite the apple," might well be in the minds of Mrs. Eastman and Mr. Pursley.

Looks as if Bill and Joe are all set for a good time.

STUDENT LEGISLATURE DELEGATES

Each year students are elected from various schools to participate in the Indiana Student Legislature held at Purdue during early December. This is excellent training and experience for the future leaders of America. Yorktown sent one senator and one representative, with an alternate for each.

These were Wayne Lennington, representative; Harry Stephenson, senator; with Dick Pugsley and Ronald King as alternates.

These delegates were elected by a committee of judges composed of Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Dunn, and Mr. Callaway at a mock legislature held by the senior civics class taught by Mrs. Kimmel.

ONE OF THE TEN BEST

After a vigorous battle for the honor to go to Purdue, Wayne Lennington achieved another honor while he was there as a member of the House of Representatives. Wayne was chosen as one of the ten best speakers of the House which consisted of 266 high school students after he had acted as spokesman for his committee for his bill on civil rights. The ten best were chosen as equal in ability and no one was considered better than any other.

He was coached by Mrs. Kimmel.

DISCUSSION GROUP

The voice of Y.H.S. is echoed through the discussion group. These people under the direction of Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Kimmel speak at social and business functions and school convocations. They are composed of members of the senior public speaking class and junior history classes.

DRAMATICS

Closely related with discussion is dramatics. The senior play cast worked hard along with their director, Mrs. Jones, to make their play, "Superstitious Sadie", a success. They had their fun along with the work, but the whole senior class was proud when the play was said to be the best high school play the audience had ever seen.

"There ain't nothing wrong with my eyesight, just ask any of my neighbors!"
Nancy, Verna, and Betty

"Get that dried-up buzzard out of my sight!" Wilberta, Tom, and Betty

"You unhuman in-natural brute, you struck your chee-ild!" Wayne, Miles, Don, and Betty

"Superstitious Sadie," presented October 29, 1948.

"Here I am." Lucy and Betty

"Lordy, Lordy, deliver you' Calory!" Flora Mae, Nancy, Lois, and Verna

B BAND

TWIRL BAND

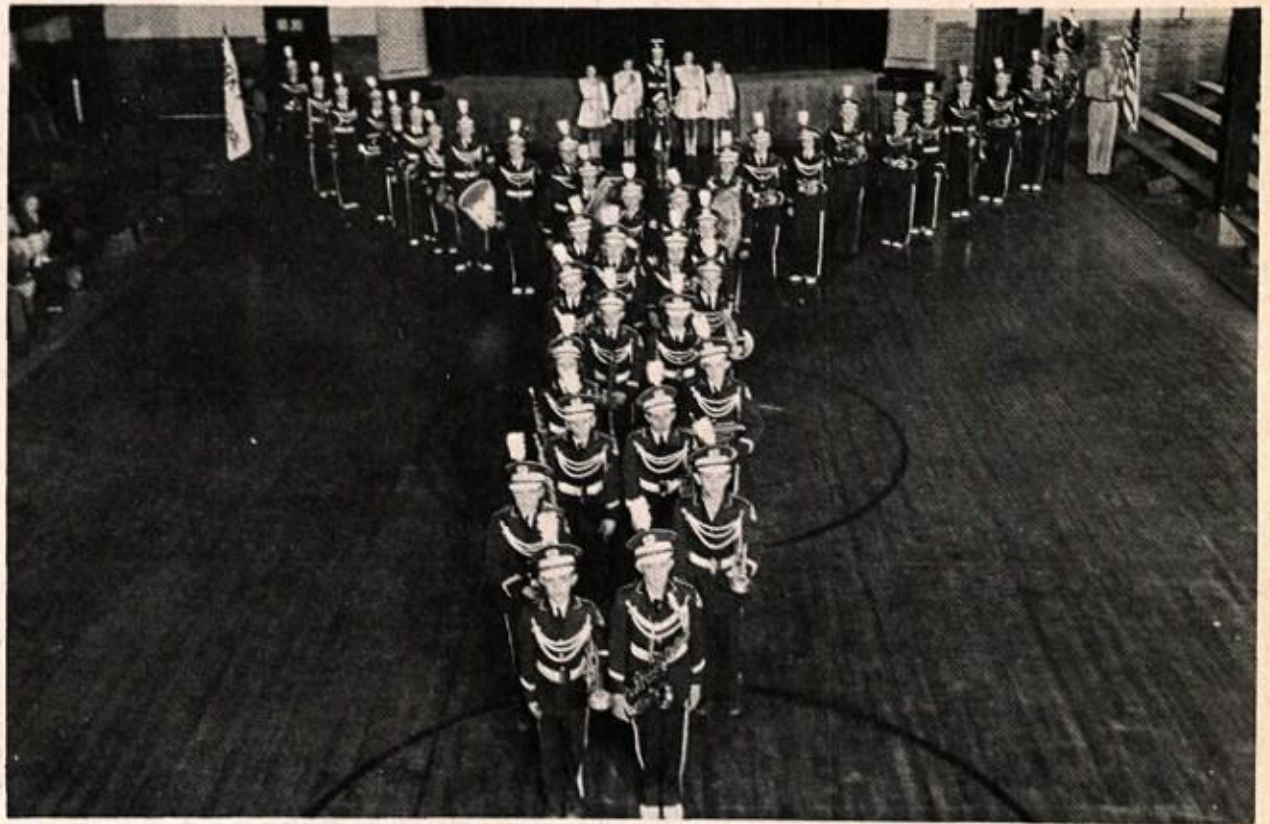

Members of this group are—Carolyn Stout, Pamala Donovan, Tobey Morrow, Janet Lingel, Linda McKinley, Ronda McGuire, Janice Snodgrass, Rebecca Sears, Susie Bowers, Jackie Heaps, Elma Fay Neil, Marilyn Stout, Carolyn Jo Parkinson, Sharon Masters, Myrna Reed, Nancy Erhart, Shirley Snodgrass, Linda Richie, Susie Miller, Jerry Lennington, Joyce Wade, Wayne Gale, Judith Gibson, Donna McKinley, Bernice Mark, Cynthia Harrison, Gale Vanover, Nancy Merry, Mary Butler, Shirley Disbennett, Ila Kay Wagner, Patty Davis, Sharon Johnson, Judith Wagner, and Deanna Thompson.

YELL LEADERS

At a pep-chapel held in October various students were candidates for the school's yell leaders. As a result of the popular vote Verna Warfel, Faye Southerland, and Marna Donovan were elected. It is their duty to conduct pep chapels for the school and direct the Pep Club in its formations and songs.

The yell-leaders, the band, and the Pep Club work together through the year to provide inspiration for our team and lend color to the school's activities.

PEP CLUB

This year, under the supervision of Mrs. Eastman, a formal Pep Club was organized. The members of the block wear white pep shirts which have a gold silk chenille tiger head on the left shoulder, dark skirts, and casual oxfords. The purpose of the organization is to provide organized cheer at all home and tournament basketball games.

At one of the group's early meetings, officers were elected as follows: president—Joyce Landrey, secretary—Jayne Thornburg, and board-of-control members—Barbara Elliott, Nancy Antrim, and Patti Phillips.

This young organization has aspirations of becoming a much larger organization and a much more forceful organization. Due to the limited space, the club membership this year was limited to forty-two, but a long list of applicants for membership is being held and it is hoped that in the future we may have the space necessary in order to admit many new members.

Without the cooperation and friendly understanding of the faculty the club could not have survived. Much can be said for the enthusiasm, loyalty, integrity, and sincerity with which these girls worked with their sponsor and the yell-leaders.

The group's motto is: "We must have a thing done well, otherwise there is no use doing it at all."
